

Pope Decides Lord's Prayer is Wrong

Pope Francis boldly exposed the Vatican's claim to superiority over the Bible by proposing a change in the "Lord's Prayer." Apparently bothered by what he thought was faulty logic in the phrase, "And lead us not into temptation," he is proposing changing it to: "Do not let us fall into temptation."

According to the pope's reasoning, God is not in the business of tempting man; that is the devil's domain. However, author and linguist David W. Daniels points out that the Greek eisphero does mean "lead into" in this context. The pope's wording is an interpretation, not a true translation.

Of the hundreds of pictures of Pope Francis on Google, less than a dozen show him with a Bible. The ones that do are like the one above, where it appears to only be an idol.

The Real Reason They Made the NKJV

By David W. Daniels

When the New King James Bible was first published in the late 1970s, Dr. Kirk DiVietro was an eyewitness to a revealing statement about the true purpose behind it. They revealed it quietly at a local Christian bookstore during a conference announcing the publication of the New King James Bible by Thomas Nelson.

On a recent speaking engagement at the 41st Dean Burgon Society Conference in July, I had the opportunity to interview Dr. DiVietro about this. He has been an Independent Baptist pastor for 40+ years, and a staunch advocate of the King James Bible, as well as the Hebrew, Aramaic, and Greek texts from which it comes. He has pastored in Massachusetts for many years and you can see him in Chris Pinto's "Bridge to Babylon" movie.

Dr. DiVietro recalled that a Thomas Nelson representative, a Vice President of some sort, showed a series of film

In addition, says Daniels, Matthew 4:1 tells us, "Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil." It is quite clear that Jesus did not just "fall into" this temptation. He was led by God —for a specific purpose.

The fact is that people often do not listen to God. Sometimes He chooses to get His message through to them by bringing them into temptation.

A tragic example is Balaam the son of Beor. When he kept seeking God's approval to go and curse Israel, the Lord finally told him to go, but set up for an angel to oppose him, and let his own donkey save his life. Sadly, Balaam did not listen even after God prophesied through him, and he was soon killed along with the enemy, because he loved money more than obeying God.

However, the pope could not make this arrogant move unless he believed that his "church" were in charge of the Bible. Many protestants today believe that without the Roman Catholic Church, we would not have a Bible. Since the Vatican II Ecumenical Council, Catholic propaganda has successfully spread the lie that "the Catholic Church gave us the Bible."

Daniels answers the question: "*Did the Catholic Church Give Us the Bible?*" in a book by that name. He shows that the popes did indeed give the world several bibles, but all are based on counterfeit manuscripts and slanted to promote pagan Catholic teachings.

Roman Catholic doctrine claims three sources of authority: the pope speaking ex cathedra, the teaching authority called the Magisterium, and then the Bible. However, they discourage people from interpreting the Bible for themselves, claiming that they can only understand it through the interpretation of the "Church."

Daniels' book details two streams of manuscripts supporting two very different types of current bibles. One stream includes thousands of documents confirming the accuracy of one English Bible, the KJV. The other stream has only a few dozen documents of dubious origin and content with questionable histories. Yet Vatican agents were able to influence the Bible translation process of the last two centuries. They succeeded in replacing the reliable manuscripts with the counterfeit ones now used by the Bible Societies.

Thus, it is technically true that the Catholic Church gave us bibles, but they are flawed, with missing verses and changed strips and mini-lectures to the approximately 300 pastors and teachers present. Then he stated something like this: "We're educators here; and we would never admit this to our people or congregations. But we all know that the King James Bible is an inferior translation, coming from inferior manuscripts.

"But every time we've tried to give your people a better Bible, they've just refused to take it. So what we've done is we've taken the King James Bible, and we've revised it as little as we could, changed it here and there, to give you (and he used the phrase) 'a transitional bridge' to get your people away from the King James Bible, so that ultimately you can move them to a better, more accurate Bible."

After this admission, his people handed out promotional copies of the New King James to the group. Dr. DiVietro said it seemed everyone accepted them readily, as no big deal. Then he looked at me and confided, "At that point, I'm done with the New King James."

I thought the interview was over. But

WHICH BIBLE SCHOLARS DO YOU TRUST?

NEW!

BUT I TRUST THE SCHOLARS

DAVID W. DANIELS

If you don't have a personal copy of the original Bible manuscripts, you're going to have to trust a scholar to tell you which Bible you can trust.

But there are two kinds of scholars: the scholars of faith and the scholars of doubt. It seems like a no-brainer which one you'd choose. But amazingly, the vast majority of professors in modern institutions are scholars of doubt! And they have been training pastors for years!

Who are the scholars of faith? How can you tell them apart from the scholars of doubt? Where did they come from? And where are they going? Most importantly, what is their fruit? How do you answer those who insist you need to trust the "modern" scholars, and get a "new" Bible?

Here's how to recognize and choose which scholars (and Bible) to trust... the ones who produce FAITH.

Mormon President “Instructed” to Drop Name

When is a Mormon not a Mormon? When the “church’s president” says so. Last August, President Russell M. Nelson announced a new divine revelation. Members were to refer to themselves only as belonging to “the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.” Members should no longer refer to themselves as “Mormons.” Even the abbreviation, L.D.S., was vetoed but the shortened, “Latter-day Saints” was okay.

Nelson’s announcement said that the change did not apply to the Book of Mormon, however. Since the president of the Church is considered to be a living prophet, his word supersedes all others including the Bible.

The questionable reputation of Founder Joseph Smith and the Mormon view of the Bible make it difficult to see this movement as part of the family of God. Reliable accounts place Smith as a small-town charlatan with extraordinary persuasive powers. His grand scheme of discovering golden plates is only supported by dubious witnesses until the plates disappeared entirely.

Their view of the Bible is that it contains many incorrect translations, particularly where it contradicts the Book of Mormon or their other two sacred books, the Doctrine and Covenants and the Pearl of Great Price.

The Book of Mormon is the central scripture, supposedly translated into English from Reformed Egyptian by Smith using some form of magic glasses. Yet the real authority resides in the President and the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles. The Book of Mormon itself, has been “corrected” over 4,000 times.

Downplaying the title of “Mormon” is only part of a rebranding. Several strategies have been used recently to try to identify with the broader Christian community. This change shifts the emphasis of the name to “Jesus Christ” from the label of Mormonism which has always been viewed by Bible believers as a cult instead of a Christian denomination.

Their advertised position of who is Jesus sounds very biblical. But they have not come forward with a denial of the fact that Mormonism teaches that He was a brother to Lucifer and won out His plan of salvation in a contest with his brother. (See Secrets Mormons Don’t Want You to Know, by Benson; page 40.)

When you examine in depth the Mormon doctrine of Jesus, you find a very different person from Christ in the Bible. Benson documents their teaching that Jesus was born of God’s physical sex with Mary, had to strive for godhood by good works, was only accepted into the “celestial kingdom” after His baptism by John, had children by His many wives, and was crucified because of His polygamy.

Much of the book of Mormon is based on a supposed visit to the Americas by Jesus after his crucifixion where He met with native tribes including one called the wordings that reflect Roman Catholic teachings. For example, deleting Acts 8:37 removes the one scripture that most powerfully refutes infant baptism.

Since the Vatican has convinced the world that they gave us the Bible in the first place, their next logical step is to get us to rely on the “Church” for its interpretation. This is why the pope feels free to change the Bible at will.

At the same time, as part of the propaganda used to sell the flawed bibles, they have mounted a powerful negative PR campaign against the one Bible with a solid manuscript history and 400-year reputation for world-wide missionary effort and numerous world-changing revivals.

Are We Finally Waking Up?

A recent survey by the Gay & Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation (GLAAD) left them less than glad. It appears millennials are beginning to catch on to the realities of homosexuality. People between ages 18 and 34 “are becoming increasingly uncomfortable” with certain aspects of the homosexual steamroller.

The new Harris Poll found that only 45% of millennials considered themselves “allies” of the LGBT movement. That is down from 63% in 2016. Two years ago, only 27% of millennial males were concerned that their child had a homosexual teacher or were given a lesson in LGBT history. Today, that stands at 42%.

Homosexual family members also face more resistance. A year ago, 29% registered discomfort upon learning that a relative is homosexual. That figure rose to 36% today.

Early on in the “coming out” of the movement, numerous authors pointed out the gross behavior of the participants of sodomy. They explained that the male and female bodies were created specifically for God-ordained intercourse. Any other approach risks serious physical damage or invites as many as 50 different sexually transmitted diseases (STDs).

These voices were soon marginalized or squelched altogether. Today, few news sources dare publish the fact that “men who have sex with men also have much higher rates of [STD] infection than the general population. Their rates of syphilis are more than 20 times the overall rate, and their rates of gonorrhea are more than 15 times the overall rate.” (Washington Post, May 22, 2018.)

The same article points out that, overall, STD cases in California have increased 45 percent since 2013. The consequences of the “sexual revolution” are far greater than just in the homosexual community.

Other evidence that the homosexual “activists” have overplayed their hand is the parent groups who have banded together to stop the indoctrination of their children. They are fighting school boards who insist on supplying curriculum that teaches gender confusion.

They are contesting the “drag queen story hours” at their local libraries.

Top female athletes are lodging complaints with sports and government leaders about transgender men walking away with wins in women’s sports events. Businesses are being boycotted for allowing men claiming to be women into women’s dressing rooms and restrooms.

Did the GLAAD people really expect that the common people would sit still for this assault on their code of decency? Hopefully, they have overplayed their hand and a backlash is in the making.

It is encouraging that the pro-homosexual CEO of Harris Poll said about the surprises in the survey, “These numbers are very alarming.” As famously said, evil can only triumph if good people do nothing.

But good people must be sure they do the right thing. Protests and counter-protests only inflame the situation. Politics can be a useful tool but cannot be the only answer. Laws are no good when not enforced or evil overwhelms the ability of the police.

Bible believers know that all is chaos until the heart itself is changed. The wonderful freedom that we have experienced in America is a blip in the history of the world.

Persecution of Christians has been the norm in most of the world in most of history. The founding fathers repeatedly pointed out that without virtue in the people, no freedom was possible. The more able individuals would eventually succumb to the temptations of power and connive ways to enslave the rest.

So where does this all-important “virtue” come from? The gospel, of course. All great revivals were fueled with wide exposure of the “good news” that the Spirit of God stands ready to change hearts. For over 50 years Chick tracts have consistently “preached” that good news. When the price of sin becomes obvious, a soul winner needs to be there to explain the benefits of righteousness.

Will you be that soul winner?

The Real Reason... from p. 2

then he told me about his mother's King James Bible, which he keeps in his bedroom, "The one she used to wave in my face and say, 'This is the word of God! Don't you ever let anybody tell you it's not!'" and with watery eyes, he concluded, "That's where I stand." Dr. DiVietro's trust of the King James has never wavered.

Somebody was working on him at that meeting. He didn't realize it until later, but they seated him beside the brother of NIV-advocate John R. Kohlenberger III, to try to provoke an argument over the King James and try to move him away from his convictions, and maybe get his endorsement of the New King James. Kohlenberger's brother edited many NIV helps for Zondervan Publishing.

The statement about the NKJV being a bridge Bible is hauntingly similar to the statement by Manly P. Hall quoted in my book, Is the World's Oldest Bible a Fake? In 1944, that occultist complained about being unsuccessful over the last 100 years in converting the world over to a "better Bible." But the people who believed "every jot and tittle" of the KJV would have none of it.

The people who produced and promoted the New King James told the world that they were only "updating the language." Nothing could be further from the truth. In addition to changing words to match some other modern translations, they also included doubting notes to show them the Westcott and Hort-influenced Greek text, so they could become their own text critics. Think about this: if they lied to the public about the reason for the New King James, do you really believe it could be the words of God?

Hi, Brother Daniels. I just wanted to say how much I've been blessed by your books and vlogs, and, really, a re-introduction to Chick tracts.

See, I had been given several Chick tracts 25 years ago. Then, during my rebellious first year in college, I had visited a campus ministry probably once or twice, but had managed to take some of the Chick tracts they were handing out. I just found them in a box yesterday (like, 22 years later) and started finally handing them out and not hoarding them any longer.

In the meantime, I'd been reading a ton of the tracts online and I purchased four sets of 50 and a sampler box yesterday. So, yesterday afternoon at Starbucks, I read "God's Little Angel" to my two young sons. My 9-year-old exclaimed how much sense it made to him.

So, I decided to read it to my VBS small group. Four of the nine kids professed faith in Jesus! Wahoo! So excited. It may have been the caffeine, but I'm confident I was ecstatic because of these four new lives! Both my kids are excited to get these tracts and hand them out. Blessings to you and all those at Chick Publications.

The biggest surprise to me was not the professions, but that the VBS coordinator was surprised. God is awesome! He's so faithful when I am not. We must not be afraid to preach the whole counsel of God, as many are these days.

No Place to Hide

Rev. 13:17 suggests how the forces of the anti-Christ will use technology to control the world in the end times. Some countries are farther down that road than others. They help us see the emerging details of how it will happen.

A current control mechanism in China provides a peek into the future. By 2020, all its citizens will be ranked by their “social credit,” part of their “citizen score.” It is like a credit score but based on behavior rather than financial ability.

Walking your dog without a leash or smoking in a no-smoking zone can get your score lowered and you may not be allowed to buy airplane or train tickets if your score is too low. Theft or worse can get you on a blacklist that affects the ability to get a job or apply for a credit card. So far, the program is only piecemeal but once it is perfected, plans are for it to go nation-wide by 2020.

Possibly aware that he was being watched by the ever-present cameras, one man oddly told a reporter it was a positive influence. “I feel like, in the past six months, people’s behavior has gotten better and better.”

This deceptive sales pitch, to provide an incentive for good behavior, comes down to the definition of “good.” In an atheistic, totalitarian country, Christian Bible believers are rarely seen as “good.”

And, of course, this effort to promote “trustworthiness” requires constant surveillance in case someone is tempted to misbehave. There are now over two hundred million cameras installed in China with a plan for 450 million by 2020. 100 percent of Beijing is now covered by these cameras.

Images from the cameras are fed into an algorithmic surveillance system using facial recognition software. Within a few years, progress in data storage and search software will assure that no one has a place to hide.

Satan’s political goal is power in the hands of his servants to control everyone else. He has been successful in various countries in recent history. However, China’s experiment raises the threat to a whole new level using the latest technology.

And, of course, when Satan gets that kind of political power, his first target is the Christians. Some “Christians” today seem to believe that, if they are not too bold, they will escape persecution.

But Satan does not tolerate mercy in his warriors. The best example today of this is the Islamic Jihadists. And torture techniques by the Vatican Inquisitors were honed to produce maximum pain.

Since Satan’s overall objective is death to all of God’s creation, even those who are labeled “Christian” but refuse biblical truth are not spared.

It is a sad fact of history that many who claimed to be Christians committed some of Satan’s most horrendous acts. One excuse that the world uses to counter the gospel is the hypocrisy of the counterfeit “churches” such as Roman Catholicism, Eastern Orthodox, Mormons, and JW’s.

Instead of carefully considering the gospel, unbelievers parrot Satan’s lie that the “Christians” are just as guilty of violence and persecution as the rest. They point to the evil deeds of the “Christian” crusaders without recognizing that they were counterfeits —“Christians” in name only.

Soul winner, the Bible predicts the rise of evil in the last days, beyond what was even imagined a century ago. We must remember that joy is our strength but kindness is our weapon.

Three seconds is all it takes to offer someone eternal peace by putting a tract in his hand or leaving it where he will find it.

Missions Fund Report

We sometimes get calls from Christians who would like to support the Mission Fund but wonder how we decide which missionaries get tracts. We want to stress that we do NOT just send tracts to missionaries and hope for the best. We supply only those who desperately WANT Chick tracts for their outreach. They contact us and ask if there is some way they can get these little evangelists to help their work.

After learning more about them and their ministry, their sending churches, etc., we then begin to meet their requests. Chick tracts from the Mission Fund go only to those ready to use them wisely and effectively. We work hard to be good stewards!

Argentina - Missionary Alex Holowaty recently used the Chick tracts you provided to go through the town of Belén and plant a new church. Starting in a home, they then grew until they could rent a hall. Holowaty reports that they have just finished going through the entire town handing out tracts until they ran out. We love to support new church plants through the Mission Fund!

Belgium - Junior Haley uses thousands of the tracts you supplied here. He writes: "The new tracts are going fantastically. People are taking them and reading them. They have helped us to get people to open up and discuss the gospel as well." Europe is often considered a difficult place for the gospel, but Chick tracts open doors and hearts.

Israel - This is a nation of immigrants. God is moving upon Jews all over the world to return to their ancient homeland, and many of them are English speakers who are now anxious to learn the language of their new home, Hebrew. Your gifts are helping veteran missionary Andrew Lewis take advantage of this with a specially produced edition of the Chick tract "The Royal Affair," about King David and Bathsheba. Printed in both languages, English and Hebrew, the reader can read the English tract, and then the Hebrew right above it, sharpening his Hebrew skills at the same time as he gets the gospel message. See this sample:

Philippines - Bruce Hunsaker is finding that Chick tracts really open doors with the police in his area. They are ready to read the gospel—and listen.

The openness to the gospel in this country is greater than we have seen anywhere else. While we can, you are helping to pump as many tracts in here as the workers can effectively use.

Notes from All Over

Iran (CBN News 7/16/19)– Reports coming out of Iran indicate that literally millions are turning to Christianity from Shiite Islam. In fact, it may be growing faster than anywhere else in the world.

Observers claim that there are two Irans: one that is Iran's public face and the other, the reality inside the country. Ten percent of the population rules the country with hardline religious oppression. They force students to march in the streets shouting "death to America" if they wish to get their school grades.

The other 90 percent love America. The Christian movement does not seem to have much organization but is a spontaneous work of the Holy Spirit. Stories keep surfacing about individual Muslims, who have no contact with Christianity, visited with a vision of Jesus, Himself.

Of course, intense persecution is resulting from the Muslim leaders. But the believers requested that we not pray for the persecution to stop because it was the main motivator for the revival.

China – Newsmax reports that China is continuing to tighten the squeeze on the Christians. Local town leaders have been instructed to take a census of all the citizens who believe in God, monitor their activities and make daily reports to the government. Officials who fail to follow through are removed from their jobs.

School children in China are being told that "Christianity is an evil cult" and that they must report any relatives who are believers. The teachers are driving wedges between children and parents by telling the students that if the parents believe in Jesus, they will leave home and not take care of them. One headteacher in Henan Province said, "If your mom goes to church and believes in God, she doesn't want you as her child anymore." Another teacher warned that Christian relatives might "cast spells" on the youngsters.

One boy found a Christian leaflet in his mother's purse. He stabbed it several times with a kitchen knife and then threatened his mother to give up her faith.

Europe – Several articles have focused on the spread of sexually transmitted infections (STIs). In the UK, cases of gonorrhea tripled from 2007 to 2017. Syphilis cases more than doubled. Twenty years ago, doctors assumed that syphilis had been eradicated.

Focus of the blame is on homosexual sex. Treatments have been developed that have blunted the HIV scare and now men who have sex with men are less careful. Sex tourism is also a big factor. Men coming back from vacations in the orient have been found with particularly virulent infections requiring some very expensive and hard to obtain antibiotics to save their lives.

The World Health Organization estimates that there are a million new cases of STI every day. Sex has always been big business in much of the world but today the internet and global travel has made it very convenient. In the West, the sexual revolution has torn families apart and spread disease like never before.

California - Diagnoses of sexually transmitted diseases broke all records in 2017 with 300,000 new cases of gonorrhea, chlamydia and syphilis. That was a 45 percent increase over 2013.

How sad that most of the world is looking for political or medical solutions and ignoring the one that always works—obeying God's commandments. Few in our modern culture have been exposed to the beauty of God's way but that is where we soul winners come in. And we need to use every tool available including Chick tracts.

Mission Fund Report... from p. 10

Kenya - Being a missionary involves more than preaching or teaching. Often a missionary gets into a very personal situation with someone who desperately needs Jesus. Joetta Smith, missionary to Kenya, who covers her area with the tracts you provide, shared a recent experience: "When I spoke at the outdoor meeting there was a drunken man who came up and just fell on his knees crying out to God. People were laughing at him, but I rebuked them.

Today, I did not go with the pastors, but after the meeting they came back to my place with that same man as he had wanted to meet me. What a testimony!! He was a BACKSLIDDEN Christian and said God had put the words in my mouth that really convicted him. He has not had a drink since that day!! He was SO happy to have his relationship with Jesus restored! We were able to counsel him for a good while and he left with a good supply of tracts as well."

Mexico - Mike Wallace serves just outside one of the world's most populous cities, Mexico City. He writes, "Chick tracts get read! We live on the edge of Mexico City and we are so very grateful for Chick tracts. When we pass out Chick tracts, people take them, read them and we have numerous testimonies of people getting saved by reading them. Sometimes I will sit down with someone after I see they have finished reading the tract and with their hearts well prepared by the gospel, I can more easily lead them to Christ."

Mormon President... from p. 4

Nephites. The Book of Mormon tells of prophets like Mormon and his son, Moroni, in the Americas. Moroni was supposedly the one who appeared to Joseph Smith and revealed the location of the golden plates on which Smith based the Book of Mormon. Like the tribes, no historical evidence has ever been found to prove this fairy tale or the existence of the plates.

The whole narrative pieced together by Joseph Smith and his successors reads like the grand delusions of a schizophrenic. Yet, 16 million people are deceived by it. Much of the sordid history of Joseph Smith and the twisted doctrines of his followers is now freely available on the internet. This may be why the public relations campaign to look less "Mormon" and more like a legitimate part of Jesus' church.

However, Mormons teach a works salvation and false spirit world and the deluded members of that unbiblical cult need Biblical truth. Chick Publications has one tract *The Visitors* and two paperbacks, *Answers to My Mormon Friends* and *Secrets Mormons Don't Want You to Know*, and a Crusader Comic, *The Enchanter* to help soul winners guide them to the true Jesus Christ. Brothers and Sisters in Christ:

Jack Chick was a pioneer. One aspect of that was his ability to move forward no matter what happened. He never looked back. There is nothing we can do about the past. But there is everything we can do about now.

In 1972, Jack wrote *The Gay Blade*. It told about the rise of homosexuality. And it told us to get away from it, when approached with that kind of behavior. It was the only tract of its kind, and way ahead of its time.

Suddenly, TBN no longer had Jack as a guest. They were afraid of “equal time” for homosexual rights groups. Jack re-issued *The Gay Blade* at different times, warning people over the years.

In 1989, Jack made *Doom Town* as part of the first Bible tract series. In 2001, when Jack and I started working together, the second tract we made together was *Sin City*. By then the movement had changed its name to GLBT. Not too long after, it switched to LGBT. Regardless of the reaction of the public, the witness and the warning were still there from Chick Publications.

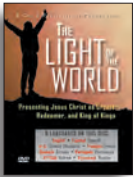

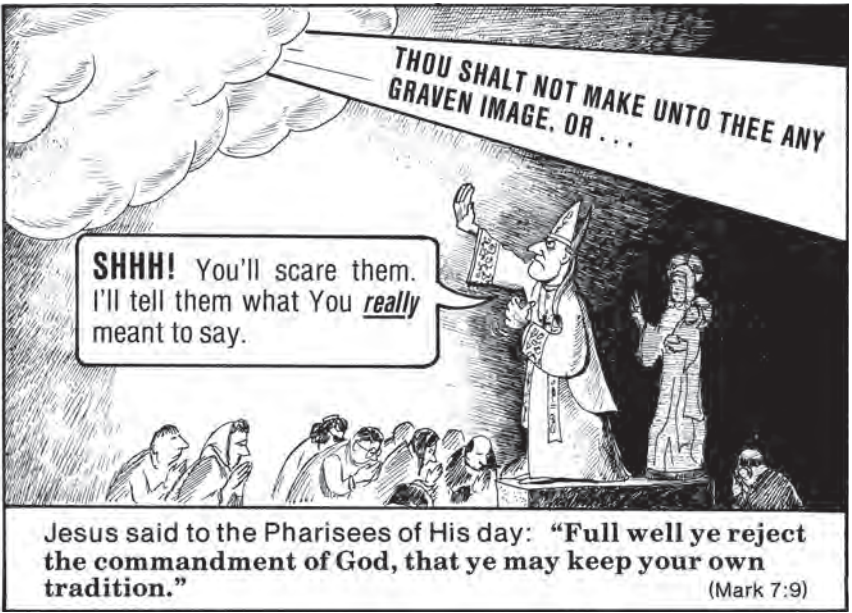

And then came the time when our warnings came to pass. For years, Christians were afraid to speak out on the issue, for fear of being labeled a hater. There was even possibility of legal action against them for their once free speech. During that period, following Jack’s example, I got to compose *Home Alone* (2008), utilizing information I had gathered regarding a form of child abuse. In 2011 we wrote one more together: *Uninvited*. In each tender tract, Jack and I were praying for redemption and salvation and healing.

It is now 2019, 47 years after *The Gay Blade*. The LGBT lifestyle has borne some bitter and ugly fruit: so many broken lives, families and bodies in its wake. But there is hope. The Millennial generation is seeing the tragic results and realizing there is a reason that “God created them male and female,” joined them in marriage, and told them to start a family.

And we can continue to challenge people with *Doom Town*, *Home Alone*, and *Sin City*. If you don’t use these tracts, please check out our entire line of over 100 tracts, find what works best for you, and hand them out wherever you can. There’s nothing we can do about the past, but there is everything we can do about now.

In Christ Jesus, and for His service, movie night."

"If you want a video that you can show to the unsaved and they will easily be able to understand where sin came from and why they need to be saved, look no further."
