

Is One-World Currency the Solution to Global Warming?

By Sherrie Johnson

“The sky is falling,” shouts Henny-Penny, running in circles around the barnyard in the famous children’s book. Children for generations have gotten a good laugh at her absurd reaction to a hit on the head by a falling acorn.

But intelligent men are running in circles prophesying that a tiny 1.5% increase in planet temperature means global disaster. Whether or not there is a real problem, the proposed solutions are scarier than the issues themselves.

Are We Waking Up?

A series of recent headlines seem to indicate that Americans are getting disgusted with the homosexual steamroller they are experiencing. The headlines make an impressive list:

Anheuser-Busch Exec Has Candid Response to Bud Light Backlash from Customers –After incorporating a transgender celebrity into their beer advertising, loyal customers headed for the door causing the company’s stock to tank. A company executive said this was a “wake up call.”

Far-Left Jurisdiction Appalled When Middle Schoolers Revolt against Pride Day –Middle schoolers in Burlington, Massachusetts organized their objection when their school failed to promote Memorial Day and went all out for a “Pride Month Spirit Day” with rainbow banners, streamers, special clothing, posters, etc. A “not insignificant number” of students chose that day to wear red, white, and blue and chanted, “U.S.A. is my pronoun” in the lunchroom. Some were even charged with pulling down some of the decorations. Of course, school officials were not happy.

Two Demons, One Devil, and World Dominion

Two demons are loose in the world today vying for world dominion.

One is Islam, driven by a command from their god to impose Allah's Sharia bondage worldwide.

The other is political socialism originally inspired by Karl Marx and adopted by the part of the world who decided to deny their Creator and make science their deity. We call it "socialism" if we wish to be kind or "communism" if we admit its brutality.

In Europe today these two demons are executing a slow-motion partnership. They appear to be enemies, but both have the same goal: kill as many as possible and destroy the creation.

When the Creator and His Bible were shoved aside, they forgot His verdict that the heart of man is "deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked." (See Jer. 17:9) They fully embraced the lie of science that man is basically good, all he needs is the right environment.

When the European nations gathered together to create their fancied utopia, things went along swimmingly for a while. Embedded in their collectivistic dream was the idea that they could embrace all races and ideologies, baptize them in the right environment and peace would reign.

They were about to learn that when you throw God out the window the devil comes through the door. When Islam found the door wide open, they did not ignore the invitation.

For several decades, Europe's borders have been left porous. They chose to ignore who was coming in until Islam's Jihadist troopers began to pull out the knives—literally. Israeli National News reports that "in the first seven days of September, German police intervened in more than 100 crimes involving a knife." They report that almost all of the instances involve "Islamist" individuals.

So, why knives? First of all, it is one of the easiest weapons to obtain and conceal. Every kitchen has several. Europe has basically eliminated our Second Amendment privilege of gun ownership.

Knives have become a very convenient weapon to carry out Islam's brutal ideological mandates.

Anyone who doubts Islam's brutality or motivation need only to review the atrocities committed on October 7 in Israel. Their search for the most convenient weapon illustrates the determination of "Islamists" to carry out the dictates of their religion.

God observed that "Righteousness exalteth a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people" (Proverbs 14:34). We are seeing the tragic result of Europe turning a blind eye to the spiritual.

Europeans tend to see this as a war against their way of life not realizing that the demon behind their socialist ideology is simply pairing up with the other demon behind radical Islam. And there are few Bible-believers left on that continent to explain to them their blindness.

But another type of devil has come along to complicate the picture. His name tag is homosexuality, a former resident of Sodom. And, he has lots of friends. Jesus described how an emptied soul is a candidate for a disastrous refill. (See Matthew 12:45.) The same can be said of nations.

In a July 2024 report titled, A World Call To Action, think tanks submitted what they believed to be the greatest issues facing humanity. Twenty-six entries make up the report and every single one declares that the sky is, indeed, falling. Topics included food shortages, social injustice, the spread of war, inadequate healthcare, and geopolitical instability. However, the two most common topics were global warming and economic instability.

In one entry, Professor Emeritus Augusto Lopez-Claros of the Global Governance Forum stated that we're moving toward a "future of accelerating climate change... and an economic paradigm that no longer delivers prosperity for all..." His solution includes creating an "Earth System Council" that has the authority "to pass binding legislation to protect our planetary environmental system and the common goods it provides, with necessary enforcement mechanisms." That's One World Government!

In another entry, Julian Cribb, of the Council for the Human Future, discusses ten "megarisks" to humanity's survival. Among the entries are overpopulation, economic instability, and global warming. His solutions include population control, a global "truth commission," and a one-world currency.

Of twenty-six entries, every single one that addresses global warming and economic instability suggests some form of one-world currency as the solution. Worldcoin, a Silicon Valley tech startup, is making it their mission to fill the "need."

After raising a quarter of a billion dollars, Worldcoin introduced a working cryptocurrency and ID verification system in one shiny unit called the Orb. The Orb is a high-tech metal ball that scans the iris in a person's eye, verifying their individuality much like a fingerprint. Upon sign-up, registrants receive a small amount of Worldcoin currency to use.

Worldcoin's goal is global acceptance of both the verification system and the currency. Their system effectively creates a scan-and-pay system that requires personal verification to buy or sell. Sound familiar?

Though privacy concerns have been raised over Worldcoin's Orb, the technology has also received praise. In a statement about the Orb, Charles Herder, a cybersecurity specialist, said, "Worldcoin is doing something really important by bringing to the forefront the value of identity and biometrics." When questioned about the potential of data misuse and general concern over the Orb, co-creator Alex Blania said they're focused on "explaining to people, that, actually, we're not going to steal your soul."

As nice as that sounds, the Bible clearly outlines what happens when a global government and one-world currency is established. There will be total control over every person, and death awaits those who refuse to take the mark.

We may not be there yet, but it's coming. It's our job to warn those who have no clue what's heading straight for them. David W. Daniels' new tract Then What? is a perfect end-times-focused comic to hand out to friends and strangers alike. Other end-times focused tracts include The Beast, Global Warming, Almost Time, and The Only Hope. Order some today so you're ready to hand them out when the need arises.

God's Design for Marriage is Always "For Better"

By Sherrie Johnson

When you think of marriage, what comes to mind? Do you imagine a picture-perfect couple who have it all together? Perhaps you have memories of parents who did nothing but argue. Maybe a single parent raised you and you didn't get to see what marriage looked like before you said "I do" yourself.

Today's politicians, influencers, and leaders at every level are trying their hardest to undermine marriage by redefining it. Changing the definition of marriage may not sound like much, but doing so creates a shift away from God's standard. Instead, man's design is upheld and chaos reigns.

We can see this shift everywhere from the highest courts to the smallest public schools. Schools teach that marriage no longer needs to be between one man and one woman. In fact, students are encouraged to change their own gender if it suits them.

In 2015, the U.S. Supreme Court issued a groundbreaking ruling that legalized gay marriage nationwide. This effectively opened the door to rewrite the definition of marriage over and over again.

Fast-forward to an April 2024 city council meeting in Oakland, California. During this meeting, legislation was passed to recognize and protect polyamorous relationships, where three or more people mix it up. This is the first of its kind, but council members are optimistic about its adoption in other parts of the nation.

Diana Adams, a divorce lawyer who was present for the ruling said, "It's very exciting that there is a national movement for these laws because once it's made illegal to discriminate against someone anywhere in the U.S., that starts to change the perception of whether that's acceptable."

The U.S. Supreme Court may not rule on the legalization of polyamorous marriage anytime soon, but rulings like the one in Oakland push the needle. Thankfully, there is still opposition to these changes. Greg Burt, a member of the California Family Council, a Christian organization, stated, "Our primary opposition is government

When the Western World emptied its soul of the spirit of God, the focus turned quickly to sensual pleasure. And as with all other addictions, more is never enough.

Ezekiel describes what happened to Sodom in chapter 16, verses 49-50. Prosperity led to idleness and pride. And their haughty selfishness blossomed into sexual abominations. It is the same downfall of nearly all of the prosperous nations in history.

Many voices in the church today are calling for revival. But revival is waiting for us to dismantle our wall of pride and repent of our abominations. We frequently quote the formula in 2 Chronicles 7:14. God is just waiting for us to do what it says.

Gospel tracts have been a significant part of past revivals by calling men to repentance. The Word of God that they carry is still just as powerful.

An Easy Witnessing Opportunity!

This time of year, folks are open to hearing about Jesus. After all, people say it's His birthday, right?

Regardless of how you feel about Christmas (some Christians don't celebrate it) it's just too good a witnessing opportunity to miss! Put on a big smile and hand a Chick tract like Greatest Story Ever Told or Humbug or The Present to a store clerk. Tell them "enjoy your family this holiday" and watch them say "Thank you!"

They'll read it, because Chick Tracts Get Read!

The Most Competent Scholars Translated the King James Bible

King James had a brilliant solution to bring together two warring factions among his Christian subjects. The Puritans wanted a new, correct Bible. But the Anglican church was quite happy with their Bishops' Bible.

But James had an idea. The churches of the opposing groups would select their best scholars to work together to agree on a single text. That way neither group could write its own viewpoint into the translation. If it tried, the opposing group would shoot it down. What a brilliant way to force the translators to ignore their personal opinions and to just translate precisely, meaning for meaning, nothing added.

It was a brilliant idea! No group got what it wanted, and everyone was responsible for the final text.

Approximately forty-seven scholars, all respected for their knowledge of Greek, Latin, and Hebrew were selected. They came from the best universities where many held positions of authority. Their qualifications were unparalleled in their day and ours.

The majority were educated at the epicenters of classical and biblical scholarship, Oxford or Cambridge. An education at either of these universities included in-depth studies in Latin, Greek, and Hebrew, writings of other respected biblical scholars, medieval scholastics, and contemporary theologians. Their education alone uniquely qualified each man for the task ahead.

Complete mastery and in-depth knowledge of multiple ancient and archaic languages was crucial. The translators had to work with Hebrew, Aramaic, Greek, Latin, Syriac, Arabic, and Chaldean. Many translators were proficient in these, in addition to demonstrating fluency in multiple modern languages.

Anglican translator Lancelot Andrews was fluent in 15 languages. Anglican John Bois was known for his proficiency in Hebrew, having read the entire Hebrew Scriptures by age five. Puritan John Reynolds entered the university at age 13. Anglican William Bedwell was a distinguished linguist known for his work in Arabic and Oriental languages. Most translators were recognized authorities in Greek, Hebrew, and Latin. Puritan Lawrence Chaderton added his knowledge of numerous rabbinical writings. Their combined knowledge and linguistic expertise were exceptional for comparing various biblical texts and ensuring an accurate translation.

Authority and scholarship were also vital considerations. Each translator was recognized for contributions in linguistics, theology, or ecclesiastical studies. Some from each side had translated entire ancient works into English. Many held professorships at Oxford and Cambridge in disciplines including Divinity, Hebrew, and Greek.

Other translators held ecclesiastical positions of authority and served as bishops, deans, and archbishops in the Church of England. They were intimately acquainted with theology and biblical doctrine. This made them uniquely qualified to ensure accurate transmission of scriptural truths from one language to another.

Much of the team was also known for authoring significant authoritative works. Publications included sermons, theological studies, works on church history, and linguistic studies. Such to present an award to the blasphemous Sisters of Perpetual Indulgence, fans registered their dismay in the thousands outside the gate during the ceremony. Only after the ceremony did they come in for the game which was sparsely attended—and the team lost the game 15 to 0.

Major League Baseball Strikes All Pride Jerseys—Bold athletes in several leagues inspired others to resist the promotion of the perverted agenda, leading to the league “...quietly ordering teams to ditch their Pride uniforms entirely,” according to The Washington Stand.

“For now, baseball’s decision comes as roaring confirmation of the power Americans are flexing across the social spectrum. After years of quietly enduring the extremists, this anti-Pride tour de force continues to be a thing to behold,” the Stand concluded.

Woke Brands Back Off Pride Month as American Fury Grows—The beer company is not the only one feeling the heat from their customers over their in-your-face promotion of the blasphemous rainbow. Over a dozen other companies including Disney, Adidas, Kohl’s, North Face, Starbucks, and Target have faced a backlash from their customers. Combined, these companies have lost at least $30 billion in market value.

Fewer Republicans and Democrats Believe Homosexuality is Moral—People of both political stripes are beginning to recognize that the approval of same sex marriage has only laid the foundation for the grooming of their children into the homosexual perversions. According to a Gallup poll, in just one year the social acceptance of homosexual relations has dropped by 15 percent for Republicans and six points among Democrats.

Trans swimmer Lia Thomas’ former teammate speaks out—Ladies are beginning to speak up who suddenly find that they are competing against biological men in their sports and encountering them in their dressing rooms. They are joined by other ladies who got railroaded in the transgender craze and are now mutilated, unable to bear or nurse children.

US Navy drops pride-themed social media posts—Military recruitment has been suffering for years because of the low quality of applicants. But they discovered after adding LGBTQIA+ themes in their promotions and training that even fewer applicants were interested. This June there was a marked increase of using the traditional military logos instead of pride-themed ones.

Why I’m Celebrating This Pride Month - Gary Bauer, Former Presidential Candidate and well-connected Freedom Advocate—Bauer sees a broad pushback against the many fronts of the Queer agenda. He cites one example: “The Human Rights Campaign, the nation’s largest LGBTQ+ lobbying group, just declared a national ‘state of emergency’ because of the growing resistance to its radical agenda.”

He states statistics: 71% of Americans reject the idea of dozens of genders; 69% are against men in women’s sports; 78% oppose transgender surgeries for children. He concludes: “The American people are very tolerant. But they are also sick and tired of being told they must celebrate the Left’s insanity, and they are fighting back. That is something to celebrate!”

Satan often overplays his hand. Perhaps we still have enough good people in this country to recognize the precipice that we are facing and are attempting to execute a U-turn. But unless we get back to a biblical frame of reference, Satan will push the pendulum to an opposite extreme to his benefit instead of Christ’s Kingdom.

More than ever, it is important that Bible believers stand tall and show the way to true healing. Filling the neighborhood or town with gospel tracts can be a significant help in pointing toward the truth.

Scholars From p. 6

scholarly works demonstrated their excellence in the fields of biblical studies and translation work.

The translators utilized sound translation methods and instituted a “roundtable” review process. Though English was in a state of flux at the time, the scholars decided to use classical English as the language of choice to translate the Bible. Their combined effort made the final work accurate, consistent, and linguistically elegant. In fact, their decision to use classical English set the standard of the English language for the next 200 years.

King James I commissioned the translation, but God gathered the most qualified scholars. He ensured an accurate, consistent, theologically sound translation of the most important text ever written—His words.

Look at what God did as a result: of all the Bibles in the world, the King

James Bible is the one that God used to produce worldwide evangelism, revivals time and time again, and biblical literacy throughout the world.

Despite the millions of dollars spent on new Bibles, the King James Bible is the one read by 55% (according to a recent poll) of the people who actually read their Bibles. And those who regularly read them (according to another poll), also are noted as having clear understanding of basic doctrines. Not so with the other Bibles. God’s hand is on His King James Bible.

This translation not only reflects the meticulous work of some of the greatest scholars of their day but also stands as a testament to God’s promise that He would preserve His words for all time. When you read your King James Bible, you can be confident that you hold God’s holy and preserved, clear and accurately translated words in English.

Marriage From p. 4

normalizing, incentivizing and promoting nontraditional family arrangements that actually hurt children.” He went on to make it clear that children do better when raised by one mother and one father.

The Institute for Family Studies upholds Burt’s opinion. In a June 2024 article, they warned that there is a growing trend among young men. These men are failing to launch. They are staying out of the workforce, staying out of college, and are more likely to end up in jail. The common denominator? They come from “non-intact” families.

On the flipside, young men raised by both biological mother and father are 20% more likely to end up in college instead of jail. The same demographic also demonstrates better physical health, mental health, educational outcomes, and satisfaction in life. These statistics relate entirely to family structure without regard to race or income.

God’s design for marriage was right from the beginning, even if the world doesn’t want to admit it. Children are more stable, confident, and apt to succeed. Young men and women become productive members of society. And the world gets to see a picture of God’s love, mercy, and care for His church.

It’s time we show the world what good, sacred, godly marriages look like. In Jack Chick’s book, The Marriage Mess, you’ll read about the gospel’s transforming power in marriage. There is no substitute for Jesus in our marriages. When He is at the center, everything else falls into place.

a shipment of Chick tracts for a street preaching crusade at the end of summer. He wrote “We had 118 people saved, put out several Bibles, New Testament’s, and John and Romans, by the Grace of God. We had 27 men total that laboured together. It was a long week but, as you can see, very rewarding.”

Also, the street evangelists of Cross Mission in the greater London area received 113,000 tracts for their team. They have come from Korea to bring the Gospel to the spiritually blind of England, where our Bible was first produced. What an irony!

Philippines

The 5th container of Chick tracts for this island nation was shipped on October 8, 2024! So many ministries wanted the tracts that the container was stacked right to the ceiling. In the picture above, one of the huge pallets of tracts is being loaded into the container.

It is now on the way to Manila, where it will clear customs and shipments will begin moving to the many waiting ministries.

Gospel tracts that have both the Hebrew and their mother tongue help them do so, while delivering the Gospel at the same time! Local customs agents have been known to refuse to clear a shipment of Gospel tracts, so we do the printing right there in the country. We keep hearing reports of many Jews turning to their Messiah. Remember God's promise to Abraham (Gen. 12:3) and His promise to those who love Israel (Psalm 122:6). They WILL READ Chick tracts!

Kenya

Missionary Joetta Smith has been training local pastors on the need and methods of evangelism. Nearly 27,000 Chick tracts were delivered to her team. She reports that the Word is spreading throughout Kenya, with at least one team going to Congo. Requests are coming from Uganda and Tanzania as well.

Also, the Steinbarts received 20,000 Swahili and English tracts for their new church plants near Nakuru, Kenya.

Japan

Missionary E.G. (name withheld to protect his access to some areas) received another shipment of Japanese Chick tracts. He writes: "We have continued to put gospel tracts out all around Tokyo. This year, I counted 56,000 put out in new areas of Tokyo. Tokyo is such a massive city that I can continue to go to new places every week to put out 1,000 gospel tracts and never cover the whole city in my lifetime."

Mexico

A shipment of 154,000 Spanish Chick tracts were delivered for the crusade in San Luis Rio Colorado. The tracts are being moved across the border in preparation for this March crusade, where they expect to have 30 - 60 people on the streets daily, passing tracts at every intersection.

Brothers and Sisters in Christ:

We were once called crazy for showing that the Bible prophesies one-world government. But oh, times have changed! Now, giant organizations say we're crazy if we don't want one-world government. They say it's the only answer to global climate change and pandemics and population control. And they want one-world electronic currency, so all we buy or sell can be tracked, or even turned off, if they don't like what we are buying or selling.

There are not many Bible prophecies left to be fulfilled, before Jesus takes us out of here. But this prophecy I take as a challenge:

“And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come.” (Matthew 24:14)

Only a few places exist where the gospel has not been preached. And technology is close to where the two witnesses of Revelation 11 will be seen worldwide. I never thought it could happen so fast!

But we can be a witness right where we live, in the place God put us. That may be the very reason God chose you to be exactly where you are!

Who is around you? Have you offered them a tract? Once you give one, poof! You are an instant missionary. I cannot do anything about massive global movements, other than pray. And I may not be the one to reach the hidden peoples of earth. But I can give a gospel tract wherever I go.

That's the easiest way to fulfill Bible prophecy. God bless you as you fulfill the Great Commission.
